

Ngozi Unuigbe

Ngozi F. Unuigbe is a specialist in Environmental Policy, Law, and Ethics. In addition to her first and second degrees in Law, she obtained a doctorate in Environmental Law and Ethics from University of Leicester, United Kingdom. She also obtained a Diploma in International Environmental Law from United Nations Institute of Training and Research, Geneva. She has published widely on topics bordering on environmental law and ethics, and incidental areas.

She has also participated in short-term trainings related to Environmental Policy, Global Environmental Management, Sustainable Cities, Protected Areas Management, International Water Law and Law of Aquifers, Waste Management and Ecosystem Services, International Environmental Governance, Natural Resource Management and Sustainable Development.

Ngozi has been a key participant in United Nations working groups on Human Rights and the Environment; as well as a member of the technical review committee under the IUCN. She is a member of a number of professional bodies including the IUCN (Ethics Specialist Committee), the Earth Law Alliance and Global Ecological Integrity Group.

She was formerly an Environmental Policy Research Fellow at the United Nations University – Institute for natural Resources in Africa, Accra Ghana; and currently an Associate Professor at the University of Benin, Nigeria.

April 2019